GLASGOW'S LIQUOR LAW.

America's Midnight-Closing Ordinance
Very Mild in Comparison.

The city of Glasgow is noted as probably the leading municipality in the world for the number of public services it directly performs, says the Boston Transcript.
It owns and operates the lighting plants, the street railroads, lodging houses, artisans' dwellings, baths, wash houses and other things. It now proposes, through its magistrates, who constitute the board that grants licenses to sell intoxicating liquors, to compel every liquor dealer to close up his shop at ten o'clock at night.
Heretofore, 11 o'clock was the hour for closing. But the town council has recommended a change in the closing hour, and it is said the magistrates will adopt the recommendation at their first licensing sessions. The new move has grown out of the good results of a recently passed licensing act, which authorized the police to enforce the closing of workingmen's clubs in whose rooms liquor was sold, and to stop hawking of whisky on the streets on Sunday mornings. The enforcement of this law has brought about an astonishing reduction in the number of arrests made for drunkenness throughout the city. It is believed that the closing of the liquor places at ten o'clock will make another material reduction in the number of drunken people that infest the streets every week night at the present closing hour.

THE HYDROSCOPE.

An Instrument for Seeing Down Through the Ocean's Path.

It appears to be simple enough, this wonderful instrument as described by Dr. C. Libertacrio, in Pearson's. "So far as one can see, it consists of a long tube, fitted with various optical instruments at the end. The secret of the instrument lies within—in the mechanism that gives it the power.

When the instrument is fitted to a ship, an image of the water and the things therein beneath the ship can be thrown on to a screen on deck, so that a number of people at one time can see what is going on in the water beneath them.
So the hydroscope, among its minor benefits, will give a new amusement to ocean travelers. The instrument, moreover, can be so adjusted that it will reflect not only objects lying beneath it, but those around and above it, thus enabling a captain to keep an eye on the keel of his ship in case of accident, while steaming at full speed.

Cavaliere Pino is confident that his instrument is powerful enough to enable him to peer into the deepest depths of the sea. In case the water should prove too dense, however, and for use at night time, he has devised a new form of electric lamp, which will throw shafts of light to practically any depth.

Horses and Cattle.

The range of cattle is practically coextensive with that of the horse. Cattle, however, are found more extensively in very hot, damp climates than the horse, and are entirely absent from dry desert regions where the horse is found in considerable numbers.
Cattle, for example, are wholly lacking in the desert of Sahara, but they graze in the southern part of India where no horses are found. They are grown wherever grass thrives, except in some hot regions of excessive humidity, while the horse is important only in regions where grain supplements grass as a part of his food.

Honor in the Lamp-Post.

Much fun has been poked at the button or the peacock's feather which denotes rank in China, but what about lamp-posts, as a mark of high degree? In some cities of Scotland it is the custom to erect specially designed lamp-posts outside the residences of the chief municipal dignitaries. Thus, in Edinburgh the lord provost has two lamp-posts, bearing the city arms, outside his door, while the bailies, the dean of guild, and certain other civic luminaries have one lamp-post each. Smethwick is the only English town in which a similar custom prevails.

After Marriage.

A few weeks' after marriage love is apt to soar away in the hot-air balloon constructed during the courtship. — Chicago Daily News.

HANDS.

It is a curious fact that the word hands should live in our language as a practical definition of the value and standing of the laboring classes. Mill hands, farm hands, factory hands, they are all alike, simply hands. Even the workers themselves recognize this definition as accurate by rarely looking beyond the activity of the hands whose skill or strength earns the wage.
But some day the worker learns that behind the hands is the stomach. When the stomach is weak or diseased the hands lose their strength and cunning. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It makes the body strong. It enables a man to work full time and earn full wages.

Mr. Thomas A. Swarts, of Columbus, Ohio, Box 103, Sub. Station "C," writes: "I was taken very sick and doctors told me it would kill me if I did not do something for myself. I was taken with severe headaches, then cramps in the stomach and my food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble and my back got so weak I could scarcely get around. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I got so thin I had given up to die thinking that I could not be cured. Then one of my neighbors said, 'Take my advice and take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so much I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles in about six weeks I was weighed and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) pounds. I have done more hard work in the past eleven months than I did in two years before, and I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."
